

American International College is excited to introduce StandOut, an innovative mock video interviewing platform designed to enhance your interviewing abilities with AI feedback. Visit <https://aic.standout.com> and log in using your campus credentials to access this valuable resource.

Once you have established your profile, you will be led through a Welcome onboarding. Please set your goals, add a resume, and choose your career interests. This step assists StandOut with personalizing the AI feedback provided with each practice interview response.

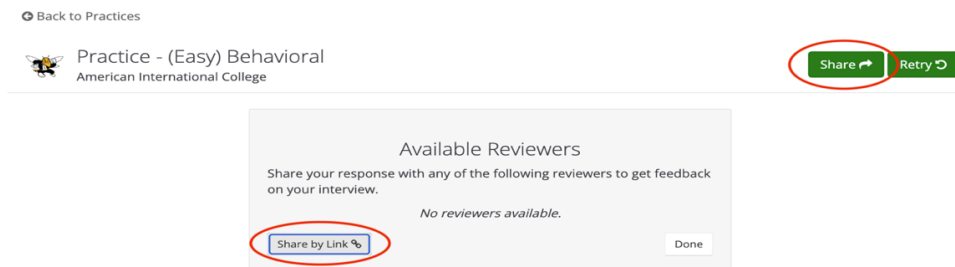

When you complete the Welcome onboarding, you will land on the practice page where you can start practicing. You can choose to complete the provided practice interviews or use the Create Your Own Practice tool to create custom practice interviews.

Here is a StandOut help article that will assist with completing a practice interview (you will need to be logged in to StandOut to access this article): How do I practice for a video interview?

If you want to create your own practice, this article will assist: How do I create my own practice interview?

Once you complete a practice interview or a create your own practice, you can review your AI feedback and choose to share a viewable link of your response. This link can be shared with anyone on your campus who has an existing StandOut profile, including the career development office, professors, and other students.

To share your response, click the Share button located at the top of each practice interview response completed. Next, select the Share by Link button.

You can also visit the Insights page to track your process. Here are a few Help articles to assist with the Insights page:

- What can I do on the Insights page?
- What are ideal targets for the Comprehension Score, Words Per Minute, and Hesitation Count?

StandOut's Help section also contains additional articles to assist. You can access Help on the top right of the page.

We look forward to seeing you StandOut in your interviews!
